

Goodwin's Weekly

VOL. XIX

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH, MAY 27, 1911

No. 6

THE LATEST PICTURE OF THE NEW UTAH HOTEL

The Utah hotel will open its doors to the public Thursday, June 8th. The formal opening will take place some time later in the month. The great, beautiful structure at Main and South Temple streets is receiving the final touches of the artisans and decorators, and carload after carload of magnificent furnishings are being installed. Every assurance has been given that the building will be in absolute readiness before the date set for the opening.

The latter event will mark a distinct epoch in Salt Lake's growth and development. Conditions here have long warranted the erection of just such a hotel as the Utah. That the men who are financially responsible for its erection have pushed the structure to completion so rapidly and with such thoroughness entitles them to the gratitude of the entire city and state.

The Utah is easily one of the ten finest hotels in the United States, and General Manager George O. Relf, of the operating company, has exerted every endeavor to secure a house staff that will rank with the best in the country.

The opening of the hotel will be the chief event of the early summer, and plans are already afoot that will make the occasion memorable in many ways.